Building Signage

Building Signage: Vertical

x = Height of crossbar in ERA logo

Building signs are an important part of establishing your identity and image as an ERA® member broker.

All building signage must follow ERA standards for logo, colors, dimensions, proportions and usage. The ERA Navy Blue sign is the brand standard. For instances where the blue cannot be used due to local ordinances or the use of channel letters, the layout displayed in the white version can be used. Building signs can be constructed by your local sign vendor.

- Vertical signs may be mounted to your building or to a freestanding pole. Since these signs resemble the familiar ERA yard sign, they create a lot of instant recognition for your business site.
- Any signs projected from a building or pole should be in a double-faced format.
- For greatest impact, do not include your telephone number on building signs.

Request for approval

Your proposed building sign must be submitted in writing and approved by the ERA Marketing department prior to production to ensure compliance. Please send a detailed proof of the proposed sign (including all size and color specifications) to marketing@teamera.com.

ERA Real Estate will contact you with approval and/or any modifications required.

- State Required Info – shows above disclaimer

If words "cell" or "office" are required by the state. Company must provide documentation to their Field Service Manager.

In order to reduce white space on the vertical yard sign between the DBA and the red phone number we will allow one of the following (these would not be used together):

ERA Logo can be enlarged. DBA can be up to 5x on brand standard signs, or 14x on stylized signs, but it is still constrained by the width of the sign.

OR

Logo can be dropped, but the space between the logo and the blue angle can be no larger than 4x (standard is 3x).

In either case:

Blue angle must remain consistently parallel to the logo.

Proportion and relationship between the ERA logo and the DBA remain the same (i.e. they must keep the DBA 3x from the bottom of the ERA logo).
